this book is a translation and study of the vajrasamadhi sutra and an examination of its broad implications for the development of east asian buddhism the vajrasamadhi sutra was traditionally assumed to have been translated from sanskrit but some modern scholars principally in japan have proposed that it is instead an indigenous chinese composition in contrast to both of these views robert buswell maintains it was written in korea around a d 685 by a korean adept affiliated with the east mountain school of the nascent chinese ch'an tradition he thus considers it to be the oldest work of korean ch'an or son which in japan became known as the zen school and the second oldest work of the sinitic ch'an tradition as a whole buswell makes his case for the scripture's dating authorship and provenance by placing the sutra in the context of buddhist doctrinal writings and early ch'an literature in china and korea this approach leads him to an extensive analysis of the origins of ch'an ideology in both countries and of the principal trends in the sinicization of buddhism buddhism has typically been studied in terms of independent national traditions but buswell maintains that the history of religion in china korea and japan should be treated as a whole originally published in 1989 the princeton legacy library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of princeton university press these editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions the goal of the princeton legacy library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by princeton university press since its founding in 1905 war and press freedom the problem of prerogative power is a groundbreaking and provocative study of one of the most perplexing civil liberties issues in american history what authority does or should the government have to control press coverage and commentary in wartime first amendment scholar jeffery a smith shows convincingly that no such extraordinary power exists under the constitution and that officials have had to rely on claiming the existence of an autocratic higher law of survival smith carefully surveys the development of statutory restrictions and military regulations for the news media from the ratification of the bill of rights in 1791 through the gulf war of 1991 he concludes that the armed forces can justify refusal to divulge a narrow range of defense secrets but that imposing other restrictions is unwise unnecessary and unconstitutional in any event as electronic communication becomes almost impossible to constrain soldiers and journalists must learn how to respect each other's obligations in a democratic system for many in the west north korea is a secretive reclusive and enigmatic country a rogue state that threatens the world with its nuclear program and ballistic missiles confronted with its numerous provocations involving nuclear tests and missile launches however the international community still has not formulated a coherent response so how do we understand the crisis on the korean peninsula that has persisted well beyond the end of the cold war christoph bluth presents an in depth analytical account of north korea s development from a soviet satellite to a failed state in the post cold war period he also explains south korea s transition from a military dictatorship to a modern democracy with a thriving economy based on interviews with key policymakers and experts located in south korea bluth s study throws light on korean hopes for unification and the future of the u s republic of korea alliance u s policy toward north korea has been politically controversial with some supporting engagement and negotiations and others calling for isolating the regime on the basis that it cannot be trusted neither approach will work according to bluth who explains that north korea s foreign and security policy is the result of both the internal and external threats to the survival of a regime that can no longer sustain itself a suitable text for undergraduates as well as postgraduates this book will be of interest to anyone with an interest in korea international security and in particular nuclear nonproliferation includes 10 photos illustrations the first 9 months of the korean war saw u s army field artillery units destroy or abandon their own guns on nearly a dozen occasions north korean and chinese forces infiltrated thinly held american lines to ambush units on the move or assault battery positions from the flanks or rear with all too often the same disastrous results trained to fight a linear war in europe against conventional soviet forces field artillery units were unprepared for combat in korea which called for all around defense of mutually supporting battery positions and high angle fire ironically these same lessons had been learned the hard way during recent fighting against the japanese in a 1944 action on saipan not korea aptly demonstrates pacific theater artillery tactics were discarded as an aberration after war world ii but red legs soon found that they frequently have to fight as doughboys and must be able to handle the situation themselves if their gun positions are attacked a second problem with artillery in korea was felt most keenly by the soldiers that the artillery was supposed to support the infantry commanders at all levels had come to expect that in any future war they would conduct operations with fire that equaled or even surpassed the lavish support they had recently enjoyed in northwest europe it was clear almost from the beginning however that this was not going to happen in korea because there was a shortage not only of artillery units but also of the basic hardware of the cannons craft guns and munitions until the front settled down into a war of attrition in the fall of 1951 which facilitated the surveying of reference points and positioning of an elaborate grid of batteries fire direction centers and fire support coordination centers massed fires were achieved by shooting at unprecedented speed
